Bible Verse

My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thine heart. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life. Proverbs 4:20-23

The Medieval Feast

During the Middle Ages the people ate only the foods that grew on the manor grounds or could be found in the nearby forests. The lack of safe transportation limited the variety of foods.

Peasants ate whatever they could grow or catch. Herbs and spices were used to disguise the taste of old meat.

The meal in the castle was another matter. Peasants planted vegetables including carrots, lettuce, okra, onions, potatoes, spinach, and squash. In the fields grains were raised such as barley, oats, rye, and wheat. These grains were ground into flour to use in breads and cakes. The peasants also harvested a number of fruits including grapes, cherries, plums, and crab apples. Nuts were also a favorite.

The only meat that was eaten was what could be hunted in the manor forests. The meat was heavily salted or smoked to keep it from spoiling. The most common meats were beef, venison, some fresh fish, and a variety of fowl including chickens, partridges, peafowl, and pigeons. Some pork was eaten although it was usually tough.

Honey was used as a sweetener. Honey was used in the making of cakes and pastries.

Favorite drinks included wine, verjuice, and mead. Verjuice was a sour juice made from crab apples or unripe grapes. It tasted much like cider. Mead was a fermented drink made from water, honey, malt, and yeast.

Only the wealthy lords used goblets and plates made from gold, silver, or pewter. The less important guests were served on wooden platters called trenchers or with wooden goblets. These were often shared by two people. At times the trenchers were made from bread.

Keeping this in mind, these are the types of things that we will have for our medieval feast. Please return bottom portion by Thursday March 11, 2010. The feast is Wednesday March 24, 2010 at lunch time. Don't forget to dress up as a medieval character

Below ye shall find ye challenge for this month!
Choose one of them to work on.

Medieval Month Project

Life on the Manor - Group project - three to four people

Lords, Ladies, Serfs, and Knights made up the Middle Ages. Create your own characters and put on a one act play depicting life on the Manor. The play can be a drama or a comedy. Your play must reflect life in the Middle Ages.

The play should be ten to fifteen minutes long. You must submit a copy of the script. You then will do the play on Wednesday during the Medieval Feast! Each group member may perform more than one part. Costumes and props should be used.
